THE CASUAL OBSERVER STROLLS PAST A

BRICK BUILDING BECOMING BROWN WITH AGE. GIRARD HIGH SCHOOL, HE SAYS. AND WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO HIM?

Early morning flag raising on the dew-dampened lawn . . .

Book-laden students from shrimp to giant size converging through sun, rain, or snow . . .

A shrill bell signaling the beginning of a school day . . .

Teachers' voices drifting through open windows . . .

Streams of adolescents temporarily blocking noontime traffic as they cross Ward Avenue . . .

Fun-loving teenagers lingering outside until the warning bell calls them back to work . . .

The orderly confusion as students pour from the building in fire drill . . .

Proud notes of the Alma Mater, audible above the din of traffic during an eighth period band session . . .

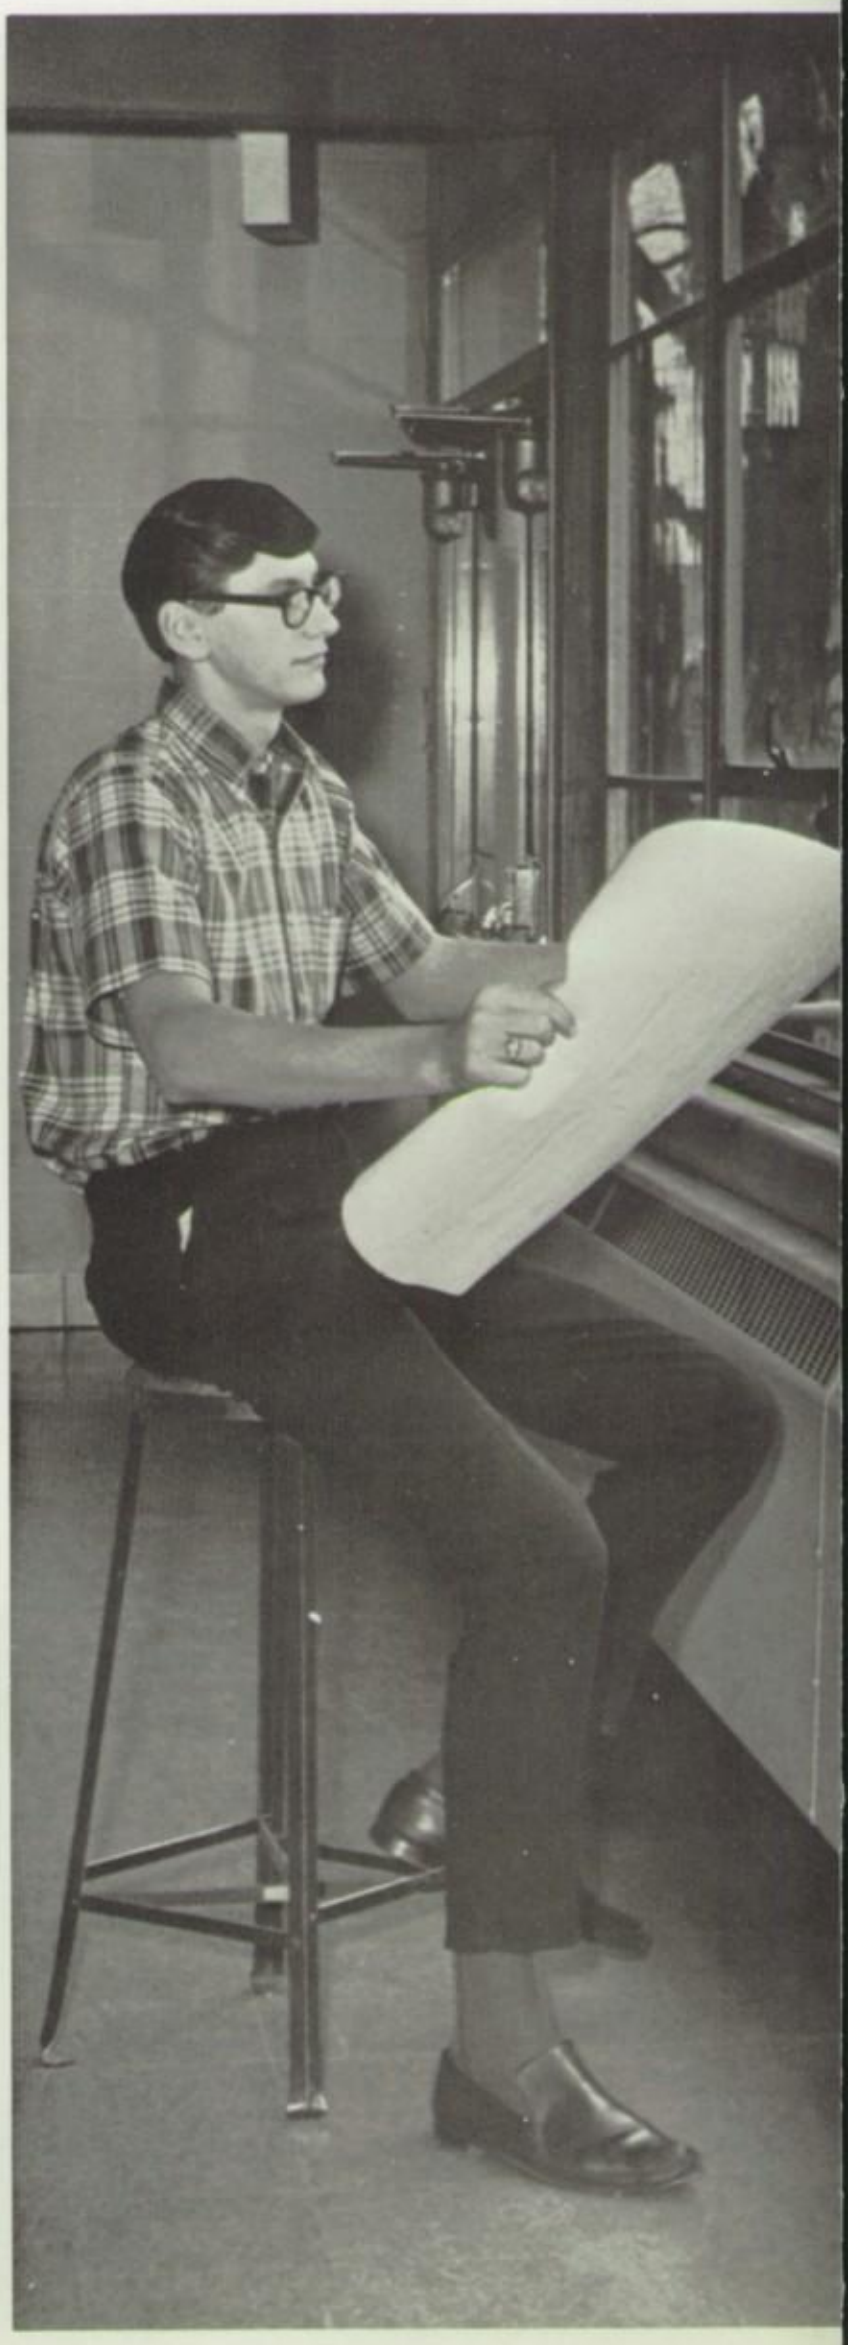
The babble of voices raised in animated after-school conversations, as dismissal empties the building . . .

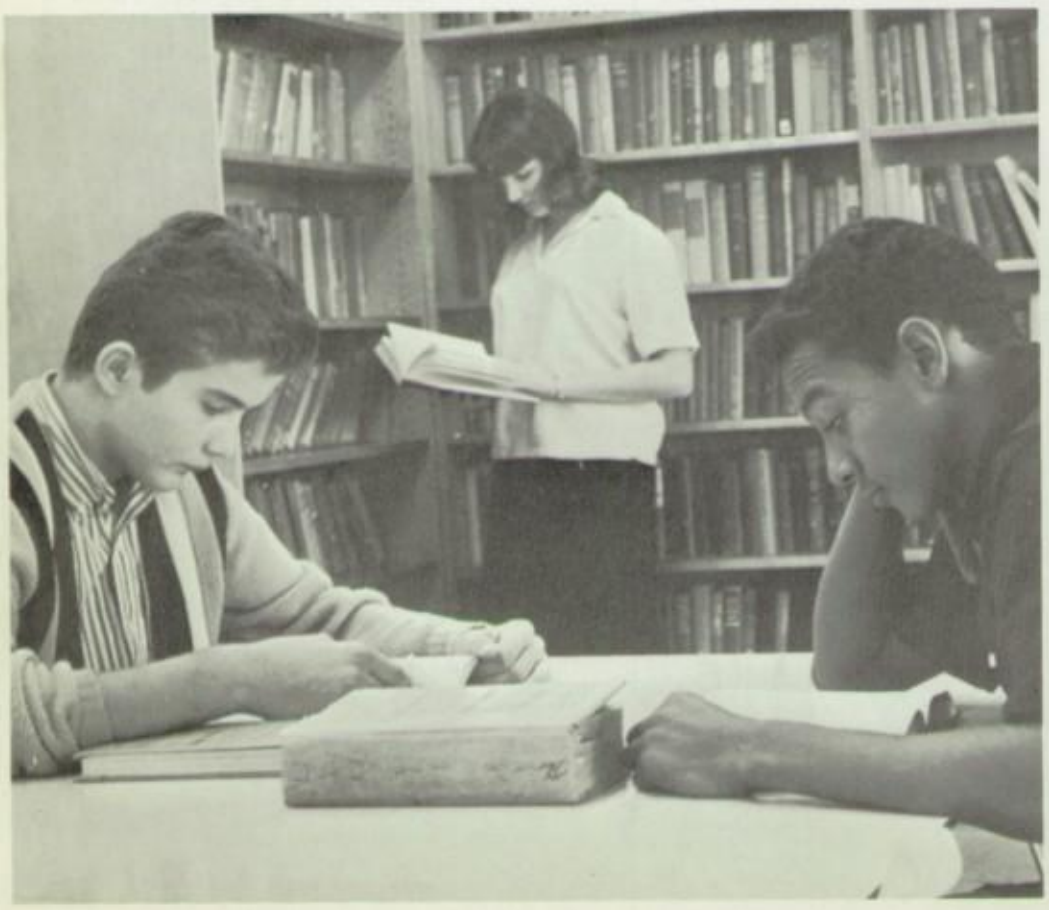
The blare of transistors to which couples move in rhythm down the walk . . .

The roar of motors and screech of tires as kid-filled cars head for home . . .

Lost homework papers whirling in the breeze.

GIRARD HIGH SCHOOL IS THESE THINGS. BUT TO US, WHO ARE A PART OF IT, IT IS MUCH MORE. ITS REAL SIGNIFICANCE LIES IN WHAT TAKES PLACE WITHIN ITS WALLS.





IT IS THE PLACE WHERE WE GROW INTELLECTUALLY.

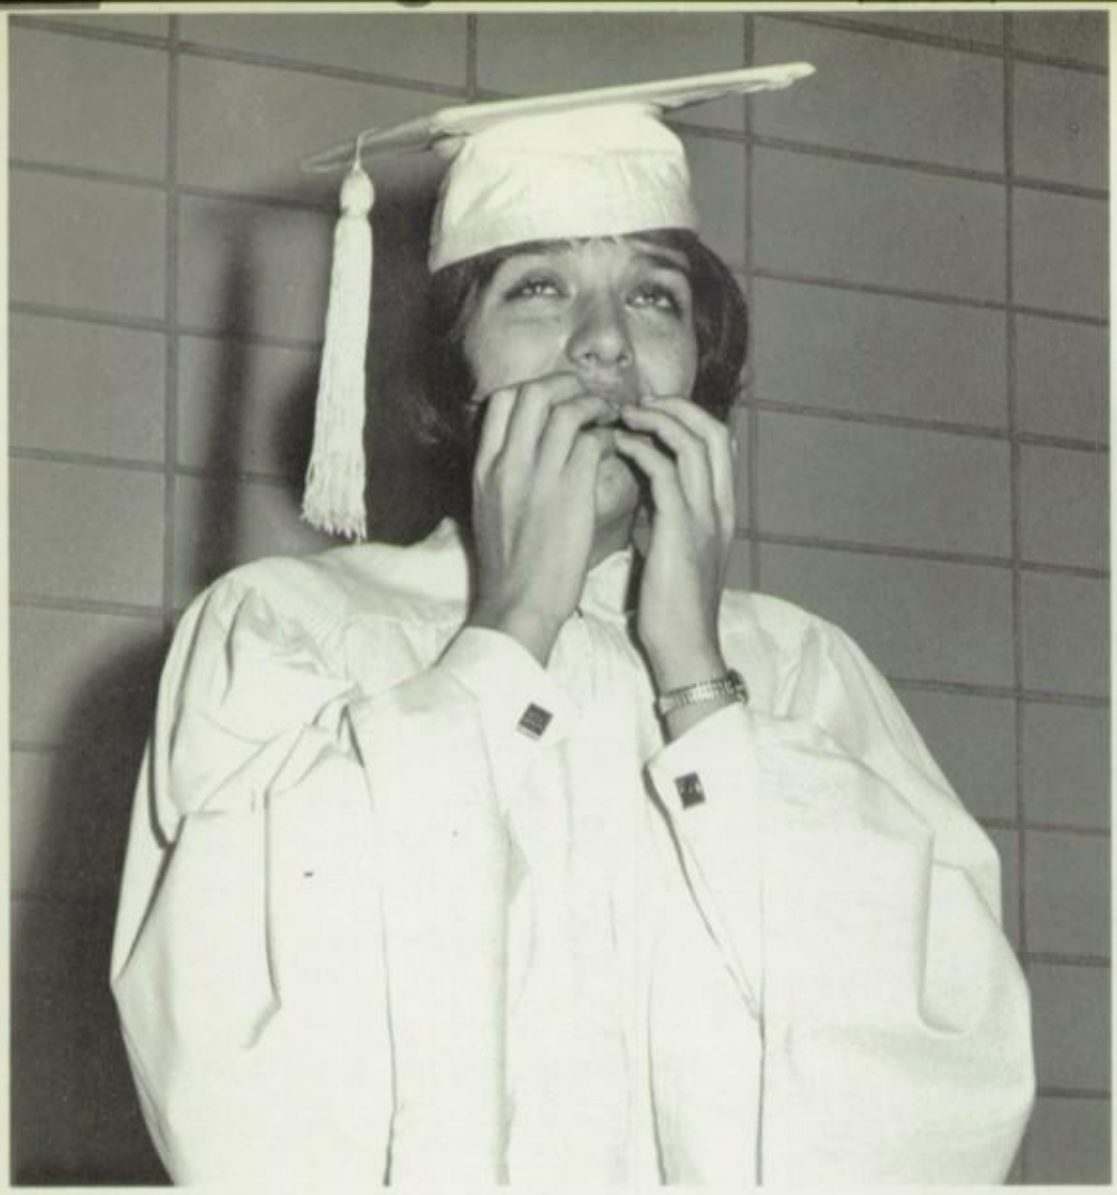
Here our curiosity is stimulated. We seek answers to our questions. What causes that chemical reaction? Why did these events take place? How is that conclusion arrived at? Why do people act as they do?

Here the world of books is opened to us. We learn to respect the minds of the past for what they can teach us of present and future.

Here we experience the thrill of creativity. An essay . . . a blueprint . . . a picture . . . a song.

Here we are excited by the ideas of others and challenged to the exchange of ideas.

Here we come to control our minds, to focus them and discipline them until they become the instruments of our wills.



IT IS THE PLACE WHERE WE BECOME CONSCIOUS OF OURSELVES AS PARTS OF SOCIETY.

Here we make our friends. We share their feelings. We laugh with them, and sometimes cry. We learn to respect them for what they are, not for what we would like them to be.

Here we identify ourselves with various groups—a committee, a club, a staff, a team, a class, the school, the country. Becoming involved with these groups satisfies our need for security, and teaches us that the success of the group depends upon the responsibility of its members.

Here we find ourselves constantly changing, and sometimes emotional, as we learn to adjust to others' ideas and to merge our individual abilities and efforts.

IT IS THE PLACE WHERE WE COME TO KNOW OURSELVES AS INDIVIDUALS.

Here we learn to evaluate ourselves. We learn what our abilities are, and how to develop them. We learn too that we have shortcomings, and that we must overcome them.

Here we learn to think. We realize that all people do not think alike, and that this is good. We recognize the need for thinking people in the world and our responsibility for being among them.

Here we learn to feel—and to control our feelings. We experience frustration and defeat, challenge and achievement. We respond to the world about us, and to the people in it.

Here we develop our dreams. We look to the future, seeing it as we want it to be. And somewhere in it, we see ourselves.

Under the direction of the administration, Girard High School is continually changing in order to keep up with progress. Just in the past few years, the new gym, library and lunchroom have altered the physical appearance of the building. Changes in courses have kept pace. Recently, the Chem Study and P.S.C.S. Study Plans were initiated in chemistry and physics courses. Another similar program is being tried in biology. The switch from traditional math to modern math and the addition of calculus to the curriculum have brought our math department up to date. The language lab has modernized the presentation of Spanish and French. The senior English course now emphasizes the importance of writing, and allows time for student-teacher conferences. Two most important improvements have been the addition of the guidance program, which aids students in selecting the right courses and planning their college or business careers, and the creation of the post of Director of Education, to coordinate the curriculum.

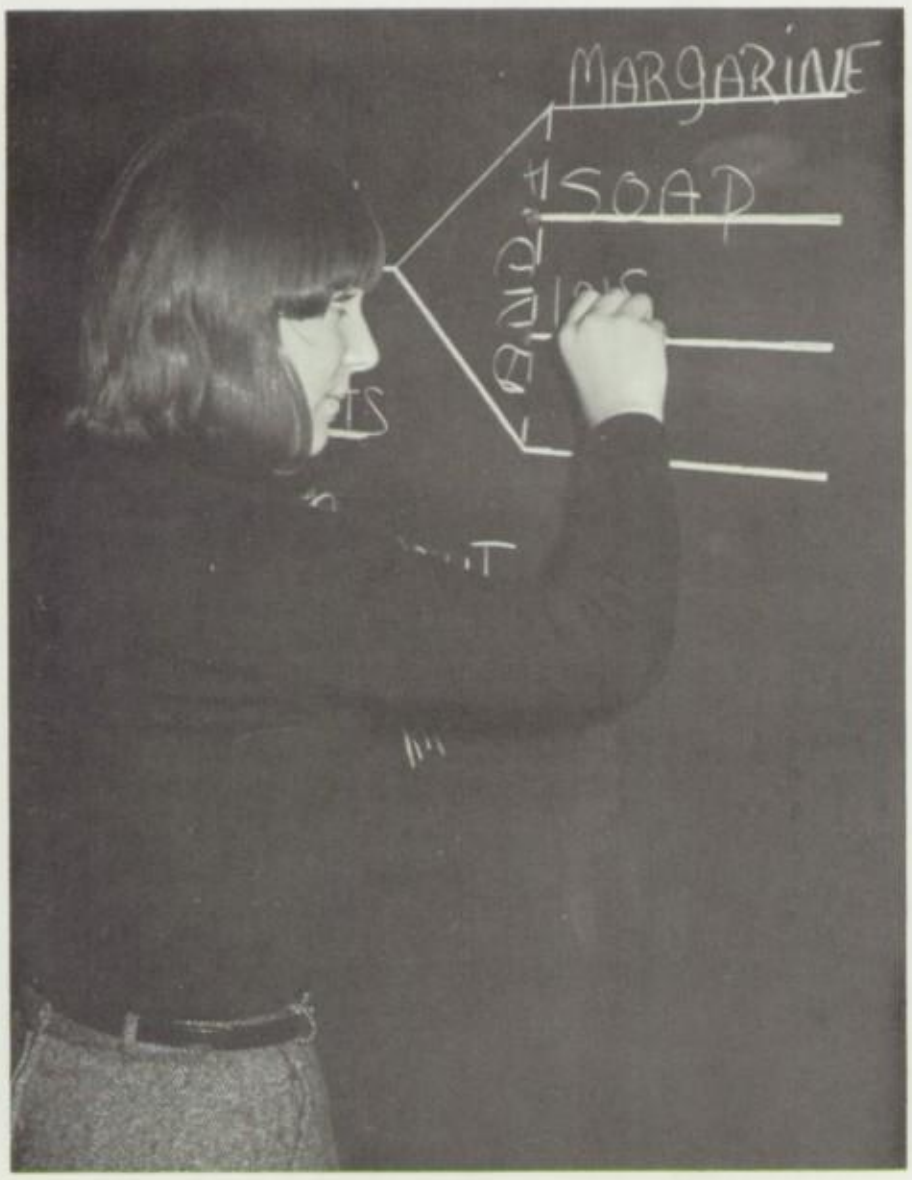
Through Skills in Reading, Writing, Speaking



Sally Arnott finds sentence parts easier to identify through diagraming.

English courses teach primarily the art of communication, which is the ability to appreciate the ideas of others and to share ideas with others. Because of this, the three essentials of the English department are reading, writing and speaking.

The students of grades eight through twelve are presented literature which helps them to understand themselves and others. The grammar which each student learns is based on the idea that a strong command of the English language is essential to all educational opportunities. This year, especially in the higher level classes, emphasis is being placed on the writing skill, so that the individual may express himself clearly, correctly and fluently. The students of grade twelve are given individual consultation on written work varying from paragraphs to term papers. They are encouraged to think clearly, to be aware of words and their meanings, and to be accurate in spelling, sentence structure, punctuation and usage. Speech students develop the art of expressing themselves with poise, pleasantness and conviction.

Aids such as recordings, tapes, films, and workbooks supplement the textbooks for English courses.

Teaches Math Students Modern Techniques

The aim of the Mathematics Department is to help its students think logically. Arithmetic students first master basic mathematical processes in preparation for Algebra I and higher maths. Visual materials such as flash cards and films, and individual reports concerning mathematics in different parts of the world are aids to understanding. Students of Algebra I and Algebra II learn the history of each, as well as the varied processes in solving problems. Graphs and charts are very helpful visual aids in this phase of mathematics. Geometry students encounter a mixed course of plane and solid geometry, which enables them to realize the relationship of one to the other. Solid and abstract models give visual meaning to the theories they learn. Pupils studying Math IV and calculus learn mostly through the working of long problems, which help them realize that step-by-step reasoning can take the complicated quality out of work, and that such reasoning is the outgrowth of observation and knowledge.

Programs Base Learning on Experimentation

Experimentation is the basis of science courses. In general science, a student first learns the basic properties of science. He learns, through research, about plant and animal life, as well as about the minerals that make up our earth. Mechanical apparatuses, such as the internal combustion engine, become familiar to him as he learns how they work. In the biology laboratory, as well as in the classroom, each student achieves a greater understanding of life through an analysis of the flora and fauna of his environment. Chemistry students learn the content of their environment through careful teamwork experimentation followed in the unique CHEM Study Program. Physics pupils encounter a mixture of modern and early physics. This helps them to realize the value of careful observation to progress. Film loops that teach the students laboratory techniques of biology, chemistry, and physics are being used for the first time this year. Field trips, models of theories, research projects, and study of new findings in science help the students achieve a deeper understanding of the importance of science in their lives.

Social Studies Bring

Social studies classes prepare students for intelligent participation in society. No longer are geography and history thought of as separate subjects. Through the use of maps and outside source material, these subjects are being tied together to give the students a clearer picture of the problems of the past, present, and future of the world they live in. Once these problems are recognized, the study of sociology helps the students to understand and cope with them. This is done partly through student production and discussion of sociodramas and through guest speakers, who discuss such subjects as family relationships and juvenile delinquency. In economics, the students are given a better understanding of our financial system through the study of such factors as investments. Through the study of government, students are better able to understand the government that they will someday have a hand in shaping. Quite often classes are permitted to take field trips, such as to see a court trial, in which they can actually see the government in action. Political candidates are frequently invited to appear before government classes.

Working Part of Life

In addition to competence in reading, writing, and speaking a foreign language, well-rounded courses in Latin, French, and Spanish help to develop an understanding of other people and an awareness of the effect of other languages on the English language.

In the study of Latin special emphasis is placed on the derivation of words. Reports on background material not only create an interest in Roman life but also provide information that can be applied to the social sciences. The concentration required in Latin has proved its worth to many Kent State Scholarship Team contestants.

The language lab of the French and Spanish students develops the audio-lingual skills. Here students listen to tapes and then practice the lesson, using proper pronunciation and accent. Weekly movies and a magazine written entirely in Spanish stimulate an interest in modern Spanish-speaking peoples. The French students now take a more active part in class by singing many French songs. Additional emphasis is being placed on conversational French as students explain magazine clippings which they bring to class.

Commercial Studies

The step from high school to a job in a large office is a big one, but with the help of our commercial department it is made a little easier. Girard High is proud of having one of the best commercial departments in the valley. Girard was the first school in the area to introduce business machines as a high school subject, and, as of this year, has made it a requirement for all commercial students. It is the purpose of this department to teach the basic skills and techniques necessary to understand and adjust to business life. But college-bound students are now finding more and more advantages in having a little commercial background in order to secure part-time jobs during school and to aid them in their college work.

Homemaking Courses Hold Attractions

Home economics courses aim to prepare for family living by teaching the skills of homemaking. The department emphasizes particularly a knowledge of foods and clothing. Working with a knowledge of nutritional values, the girls learn the art of planning and serving well-balanced meals. The foods classes cover a wide scope of other areas, ranging from instruction on the preservation and canning of foods to a special candy and cookie lab. The sewing classes include additional units in home nursing and mother and baby care. The department has two firsts this year in a course in laundering and a Clothing III class. Some modern machines, including a washer and dryer, a mangle, and the zigzag sewing machines have been added to the Home Ec Department to aid those who are planning domestic careers.

Boys Learn Practical Techniques in Class

Practical experience in woodworking, electricity, and mechanical drawing is offered by the Industrial Arts Department. From the most elementary step of learning how to use all the tools available to them to the final designing and constructing of their own projects, students are encouraged to use their own ideas and initiative. A special unit in electricity gives the students a fundamental study of electrical charges and wiring. Here they are introduced to problems which they may later encounter and which they are able to work on now under classroom conditions.

Physical Education

Sound minds and bodies are built in our Physical Education and Health Department. Gym classes for eighth graders, freshmen, and sophomores offer training on the trampoline, horse, rings, and parallel bars. Students learn to participate in basketball, football, baseball, volleyball, field events, and folk dances; the basic rules of each are learned through practice. A noon intramural program, including such sports as volleyball, football, baseball, basketball, and badminton, receive much support from the student body. Many of these teams are coed. The health course helps students maintain and improve both physical and mental health. Special instruction is given in narcotics and alcohol and their harmful effects on the body. Laws concerning narcotics and alcohol are explained thoroughly to the students. Education through physical activities and training show Girard High pupils the way to healthful, happy living.

Opportunity for Creative Self-Expression

In the Instrumental Music Department students are taught how to read, understand, play, and appreciate all types of music, from opera to jazz. Once the students have become proficient on their individual instruments they are given a chance to join the marching band, concert band, or dance band.

Students interested in vocal music are eligible to join the chorus. Here again they are introduced to all kinds of music and are given a chance to perform at different school functions.

In the Art Department students are given another opportunity to develop their artistic talents. On Tuesday and Friday afternoons, Room 114 becomes a creative art room. It is here that students can freely express themselves with a variety of materials.

The driver's training course consists of textbook work, visual education, State Patrol participation, observation, and behind-the-wheel experience. Students are taught the do's and don'ts of driving. In addition, the course enables a student driver to build up confidence so that he can drive well instinctively, avoid accidents, protect himself and others, and get the greatest pleasure out of driving. Practical experience on the road is a valuable part of the training, not only in the mechanics of driving but also in the courtesies of the road.

Special Ed Classes Use Work-Study Program

The Special Education Department is an academic unit offering training in general mathematics, reading, English, literature, social studies, and science. Each student must be treated as a definite individual and must be met on his own level of learning. Varied methods of instruction are employed, such as the socio-drama and small activity groups, as well as educational devices such as the reading accelerator, the recorder, the record player, and films.

This year, with the help and co-operation of the Girard Chamber of Commerce, Girard High has initiated its first work-study program. The program is designed for students who can be usefully employed while attending high school and completing their education. They receive training in the classroom and then supplement this training with practical experience gained by working part of the school day. The program's aim is to encourage young people to become self-supporting and socially adjusted, and to learn to accept responsibility.

Band Performs for Civic and School Affairs

While other GHS students are forsaking school activities for summer fun, members of the band are already preparing marching drills and practicing music for the coming year. Their busy season begins with participation in the Homecoming parade. Community service continues through the year, on such occasions as Veterans Day and Memorial Day. Their primary service to the school is adding color and spirit to the football games and pep rallies. Once football season is over, concert season begins. A pop concert in February and an annual spring concert, plus ensemble and solo competition in district contests, provide incentive for constant practice. In addition to these activities, some members have also formed a dance band, which plays for the school plays and for the dances following the concerts.

Choral Groups Provide Varied Musical Fare

It is almost impossible for most GHS students to imagine any of the holiday assemblies without the voices of the chorus. For a number of years they have been regulars in the Christmas, Easter, and Thanksgiving programs, providing all types of music from a pepped-up chorus of "Jingle Bells" to the soft strains of inspirational religious favorites. In this way the chorus has become a regular high school institution, not just a way to use up a study hall. And this year was no different, with the chorus itself singing for the Christmas and Easter assemblies, and the Carriettes helping out on the Thanksgiving program.

In addition to the holiday programs, the chorus keeps itself busy with an Open House program and the annual minstrel. The minstrel is a much anticipated event as well as a memorable one, with jokes, music, and men, and tons of fun for everyone.

Magazine Campaign Sees Record Broken

This year's magazine campaign, led by Mr. Baumgartner, reached $2,578.76. Of this sum, $850.86 was used for school assemblies, buses for club activities, and necessary equipment for classes.

Joe Higgins, a sophomore from homeroom 214, was the top salesman with $271.50, breaking an old school record. Among his prizes were a walkie-talkie radio set, $25 in cash, and two tickets to see Robert Goulet at Stambaugh Auditorium. Other outstanding salesmen received prizes ranging from a transistor radio to a football.

Homeroom representatives also worked hard, managing all money and orders for each homeroom.

AFS Is Host to Fifth Exchange Student

To promote a better understanding of our world neighbors is the objective of the AFS Club. Members include those juniors and seniors who have entertained AFS students, applied for the Americans Abroad program, or contributed to making the stay of the exchange student pleasant.

A major event sponsored by the club is inviting all the exchange students from the surrounding area to Girard for an assembly in school and a dance in their honor that same night. They then stay in the homes of GHS students and return home the following day.

As the old cliche goes, "It's better late than never"; so it happened with Girard High's fifth foreign exchange student, Emilio Savonitto, who arrived in Girard on November 13 to make his home with Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Marcarello. Emilio comes from Udine, Italy, and is one of five children. He gets great satisfaction out of playing the flute and the bassoon.

Mary Jo Marcarello smilingly introduces Emilio to Mr. Boyee for his official welcome.

Admiring the watch that the AFS Club gave Emilio for Christmas are Ginger Rice, president; Marcia Corbett, vice president; Mrs. Gottschalk, sponsor; Francie Koppel, treasurer; and Anita Merrick, secretary.

Cheerleaders Provide

Although rain dampened the field, it didn't dampen anyone's spirits for the Homecoming weekend. The festivities began with an exciting game against Newton Falls. At half-time, before an expectant crowd, Mike Penza and Georgene Kordic were introduced as the 1965 Homecoming King and Queen.

The following evening the King and Queen reigned at the semi-formal dance. The gym had been transformed by the cheerleaders into a moonlit garden. A fountain surrounded by flowers was the center of interest. During intermission, the court was introduced and the attendants were crowned by the Queen. The King and Queen led the court in dancing to the music of the theme, "Some Enchanted Evening."

Georgene Kordic, Anita Merrick, and Tricia Augustine react to surprise announcement of queen's selection.

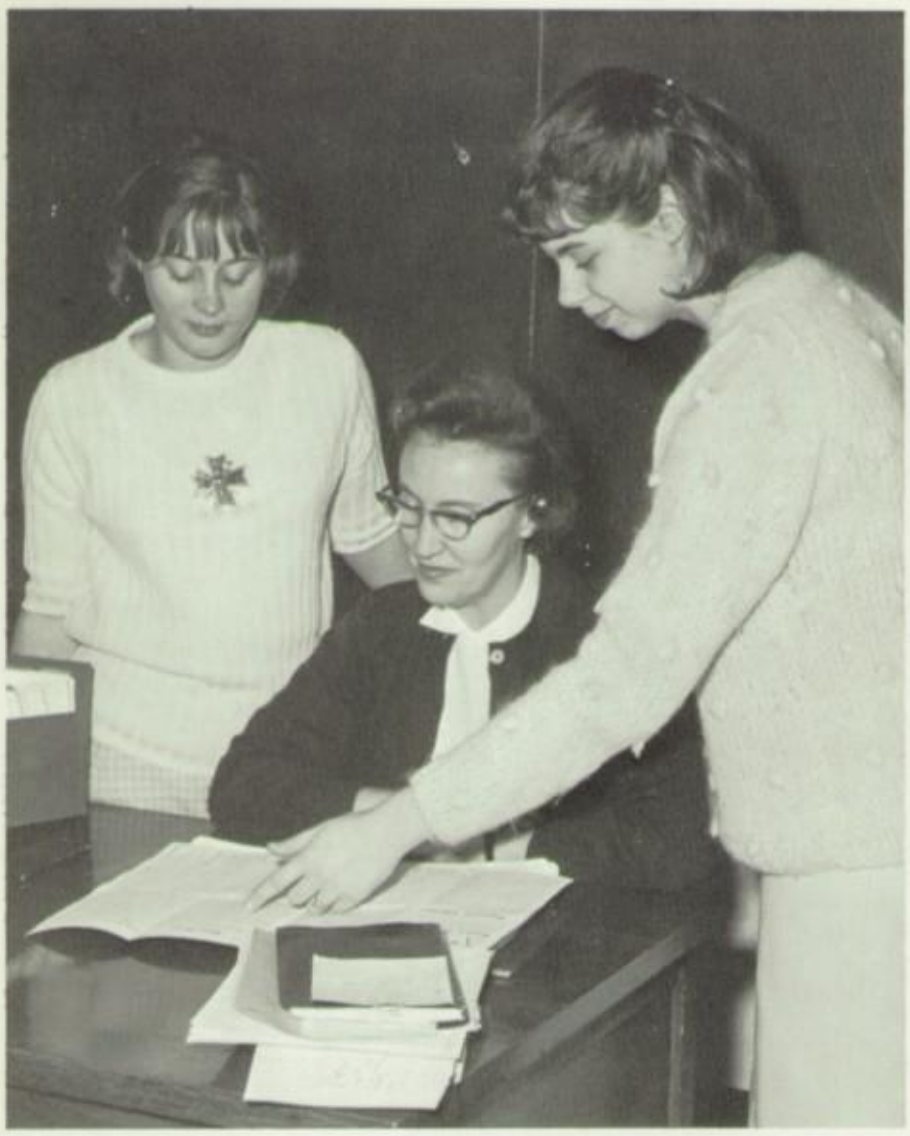
Journal Is Source



Editor Pat Kivlighan and assistant editor Kathy Hart discuss the latest issue of the Journal with their advisor, Mrs. Woodrum.

Events of the year are chronicled as they happen, in the Journal.

The Journal editorial staff is divided into news reporters, columnists, club reporters, and sports reporters. These people cover a wide variety of newsworthy events, from scholastic achievement of students to the latest sports encounters. They write up the event and then turn their copy in at the deadline for checking. The copy is then sent to a typist. Next comes the proofreading, counting, and setting up the paper. A trip to the printers and more proofreading follows. The result is an informative and sometimes humorous school newspaper.

Soliciting subscriptions was the first event of the year for the business staff of the Journal. By purchasing a paper, subscribers not only received a monthly issue but also were entitled to see a movie, Bye Bye Birdie, which was offered to boost sales. Other money-making activities undertaken by the business staff throughout the year included the selling of ads and the planning of the annual Sadie Hawkins Dance.

Reflector Is Record

To record the fun of clubs and other extracurricular activities, the joy of victory and the anguish of defeat, and the many hours spent in the classroom is the purpose of this year's Reflector. The project began early in the fall, when the co-editors and editorial staff were chosen. The staff was then divided into several committees, each responsible for a certain section of the book. During the year, these people planned layouts for each page, wrote and edited copy, and composed captions for each picture. The business staff also began its work of soliciting ads early in the fall. The staffs collaborated on the sales campaign and the fund-raising carwash and dance. The year was brought to a rousing finish when workers turned to play for the annual Reflector staff party.

the Beef'' Marks Juniors' Dramatic Debut

Rich Ragozine attempts to lend Jim Brown (in barrel) a helping hand, as Marilyn Williams stands by astounded.

The junior class began its theatrical career with the production of "Beauty and the Beef" on November 18, 1965. The budding Thespians experienced, for the first time, the fun of rehearsals, the thrill of being made-up, the agony of stage fright, and the ecstasy of applause. Behind the scenes, many hands worked endlessly to secure the exact lighting, to be sure of correct timing on the doorbell and telephone, and to have props ready and waiting.

"Beauty and the Beef" concerns Ginny Allen, who is trying to live down her reputation as a "brain." Being desperate for a date, Ginny pretends to be dumb to gain the attentions of Beef Anderson, the star football player. Her plan works until Beef sees her Junior Quiz trophy. Meanwhile, Ginny learns that Beef has been suspended from the team for a week because he copied her history paper. Ginny is heartbroken, because in reality she copied his in order to get a C. Finding no one to believe her story, she decides to have a party for the team. She says the purpose is to cheer them up, but really she plans to spike the cocoa with ipecac, making them all sick, thereby postponing their big game for a week until Beef can play. Her plan works. The team wins, and Ginny finds herself surrounded by dozens of date-seeking boys, none of whom compare with Beef.

Y-Teens Combine Fun

Mary Jo Marcarello and Phyllis Zaleski plan a reading lesson for the YWCA project in which they participated.

The goals for Y-Teens, a world-wide organization affiliated with the YWCA, are "to grow as a person; to grow in friendship with girls of all ages, races, religions, and creeds; and to grow in the knowledge of God." Throughout the year, the 180 members of Fidelis I and II, the Y-Teen Clubs of Girard High, strive to promote good will, not only in school, but throughout the community, nation, and world. Parts of the service program this year were assisting in the Muscular Distrophy Drive and making Christmas pins for a children's home. Several girls also participated in a program at the YWCA in which they tutored underprivileged school children in reading. Y-Teens also enjoy the fun and fellowship of regular club meetings and the two annual city-wide dances, Touchdown Toddle and Spring Formal. Major programs for meetings were a mother-daughter tea and a talk by exchange student Emilio Savonitto. Group singing added a relaxing touch to each meeting.

Hi-Y Boys Maintain Affiliaton with YMCA

To develop the ideals of citizenship, interdependence, clean-living, scholarship, sportsmanship, and responsibility, and to produce the strong and responsible citizens so necessary to tomorrow's world are the aims of the Girard Hi-Y. To accomplish this, the boys take an active part in school and community life through various service projects and through meeting with the Hi-Y members of other schools. This year the Hi-Y members kept themselves busy by packing kits for the Girard Heart Fund Campaign, by parking cars at the basketball games, by taking part in the Hi-Y Civic Day, and by playing in a Hi-Y basketball league. Because of the Hi-Y's close association with the YMCA, every month the Hi-Y members get together for a "fun night" of swimming and sports sponsored by the YMCA. For Hi-Y members this year was marked by the highest number of members ever and more diversified programs and activities.

Key Club's Service Projects Are Varied

With the motto "We Build" as a watchword, the Key Club set out to make this their most successful year yet. The Girard Chapter of Key Club International, founded in 1957, is composed of boys from the sophomore, junior, and senior classes who join together to serve their friends, class, and city. Projects included giving free red and black pom-poms to all GHS followers who sat in the cheering sections at the basketball games, sponsoring a series of assemblies before the student body, and maintaining the school bulletin board. The highlight of this year's projects was a contest among the students of Girard's grade schools to see which could draw the best picture to represent the meaning of Christmas. An innovation this year was the Key Club Court, the purpose of which was to settle violations of the club's laws. The court was held once a month, and parties found guilty were made to pay a fine plus court costs.

Grade school entries in the picture contest are judged by Jerry Lambert, president; Phil Palermo, treasurer; Jack Lewis, sergeant at arms; Fred Robsel, secretary; and Andy Forde, vice president.

Students whose interests lean toward education find the Future Teachers of America a very profitable organization. In this club the members are given a chance to experience an actual day of teaching when the grade school teachers attend a workshop. In addition, members of FTA provide services to the high school teachers, performing assigned tasks connected with the routine of a teacher's work. This year the junior and senior members of the FTA visited Hiram College and Kent State University. Here they were given guided tours of the campuses and observed actual college classes in education. The Junior High group collected Christmas toys for underprivileged children in addition to their usual meetings.

FNA Members Gain Perspective on Nursing

Girard High School's Future Nurses Association began its second year this fall. This year's program was highlighted by tours of Mount Sinai and St. Elizabeth's Hospitals, at which time the girls had the opportunity to observe a real hospital at work. The members also had a chance to obtain practical experience by doing volunteer work for the Red Cross. This work included putting on a hootenanny for the patients of Woodside Receiving Hospital. The girls enjoyed the many speakers and film strips pertaining to the nursing profession which were made available to them.

Full of courage, Mary Jo Marcarello, president, awaits the pricking of her finger by Crisha Jacobs, vice president, while Chris Ragan, secretary, Marsha Pepper, treasurer, and Mrs. Sutcliffe, sponsor, look on in sympathy.

Lucille Moreland, Barb Tregaskes, and Cynthia Christy prepare favors to take to Woodside Hospital.

Mrs. Wilkins discusses plans for future GAA activities with Norma Mushrush, vice president; Shirley Bonnett, president; Mary Ann Drummond, sergeant at arms; Beverly Modarelli, sergeant at arms; Bonnie McFall, treasurer; and Susan Kay, secretary.

GAA Offers Pin for Participation Points

Intramural sports and the bowling program helped this year to promote the goal of the Girls' Athletic Association-promoting sportsmanship, leadership, and friendship. But these two programs are just a few sponsored by the GAA. One of the favorite activities was fun night. A dance, a swimming party, and a picnic at Mill Creek Park completed the year's activities.

This year the GAA initiated a point system for all members. Points are received for participating in intramural games, serving on committees, refereeing games, and attending meetings. At the end of her senior year, any girl who has accumulated a specific number of points is awarded a GAA pin.

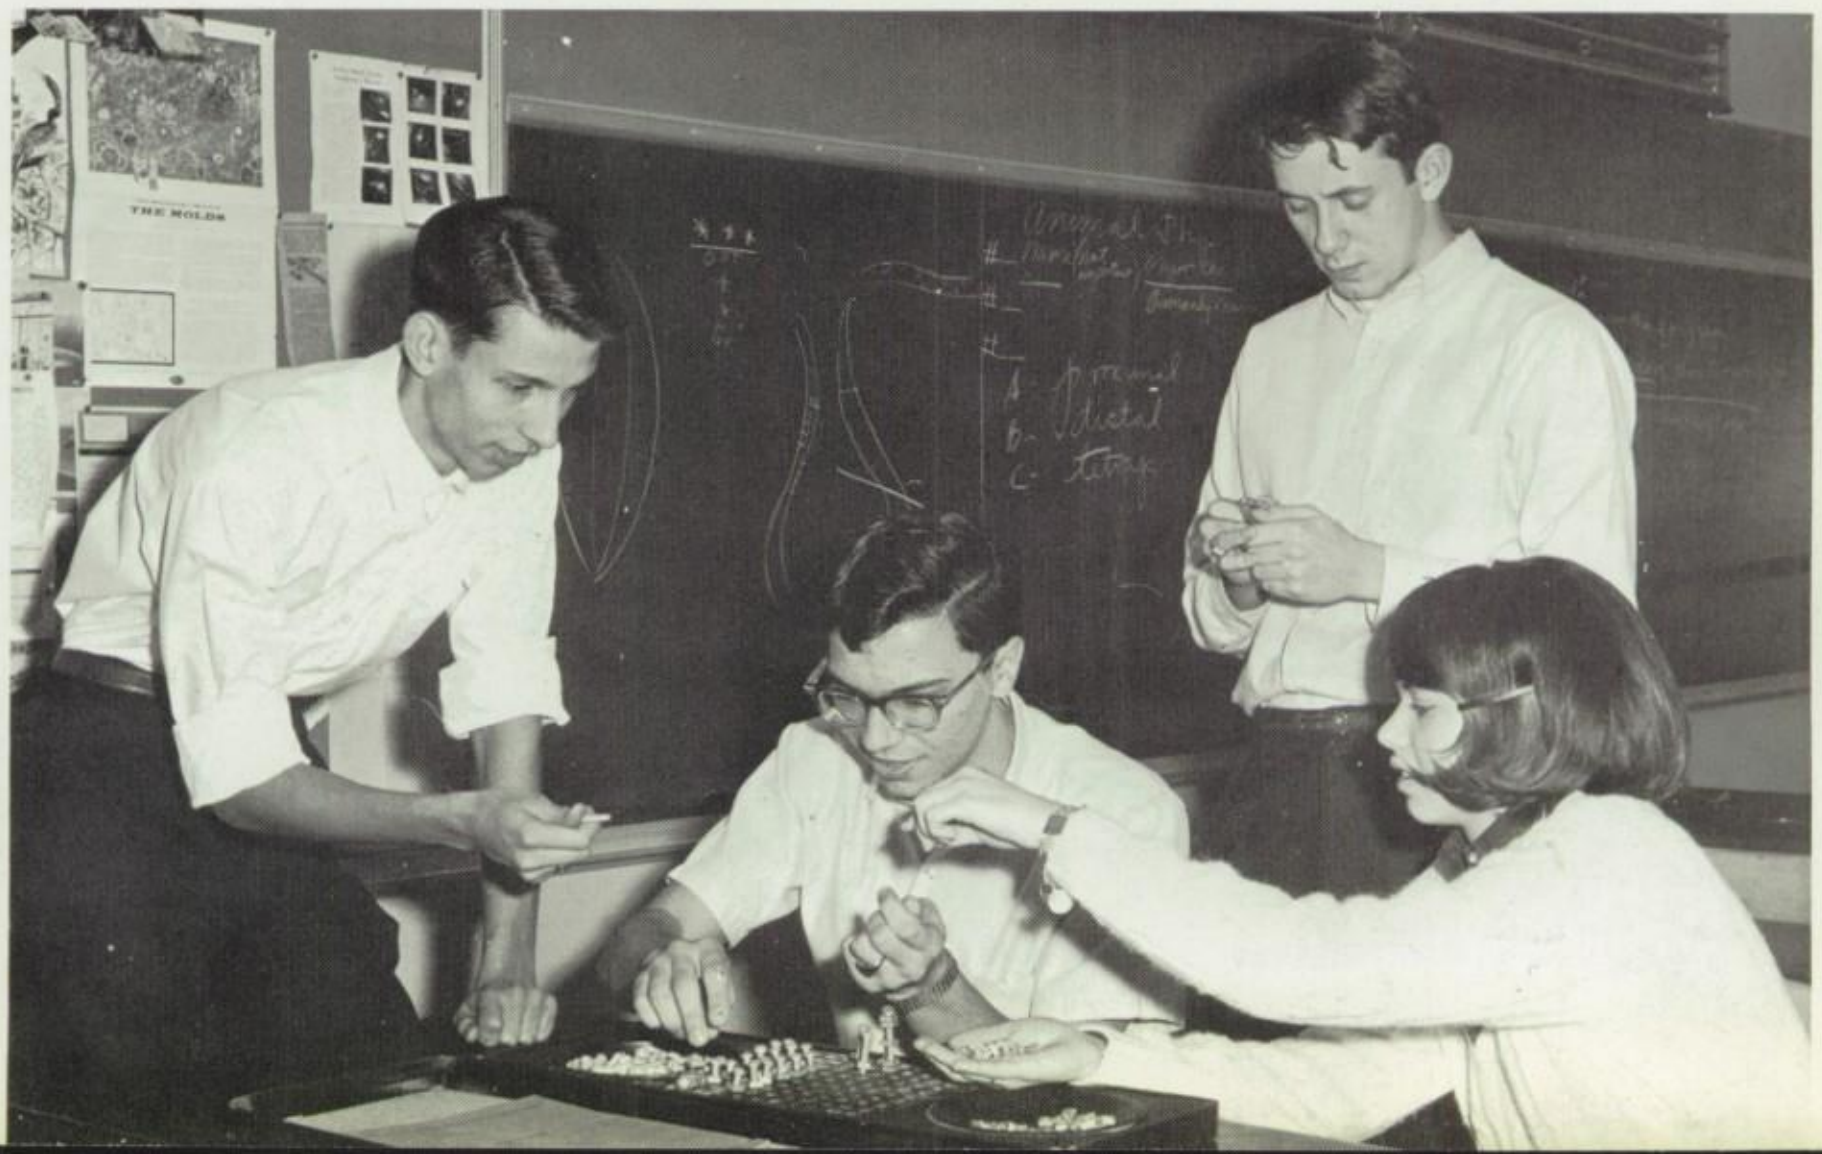
Sally Seward and Cynthia Mathes begin the fun night activities, as Marcia Corbett, Barb Charlesworth, and Mary Beth Adaway come to join the fun.

Chemistry Club officers test new chemicals: Susan Major, secretary; Mr. Cramer, sponsor; Marcia Corbett, treasurer; Bill Hart, vice president; Jerry Lambert, president.

Chemistry Club Attracts by Varied Programs

Juniors and seniors who have taken chemistry or physics are eligible for Chemistry Club. The students meet with Mr. Cramer on alternating Tuesday evenings. The program usually consists of a guest speaker who lectures on a certain aspect of science, or of movies and games of a scientific nature. All members are encouraged to take an active part by debating the topic covered at the meeting or by participating in the games. The main activity of the club is sponsoring a field trip to the Cleveland Museum of Natural History or to the Buhl Planetarium in Pittsburgh. Another highlight of the year is the annual club picnic.

Robert Seymour and Debby Troyan assist John Zuppo with his dexterity test while Jack Lewis times him.



Science Projects Win

This study of the DNA molecule of genetics won Barbara Charlesworth a high rating in the field of biological science.

Many students display projects in Girard's annual Science Fair, in the categories of physical sciences, earth sciences, biological sciences, and mathematics. Local and out-of-town judges rate the projects as superior (70—90 points), excellent (50—70 points), or good (10—50 points). Originality, scientific expression, and knowledge gained by the student are all taken into consideration. The judges also interview each student on his project. All receiving a superior rating are eligible to enter the district science fair at Austintown, and to go from there into state competition.

Thespians Emphasize Dramatic Techniques

Choosing a suitable production for an assembly is the engrossing problem for Mrs. G and Marcia Corbett, vice president; Marsha Pepper, secretary; Bill Hart, president; and Anita Merrick, treasurer.

Planning, producing, and participating in both the Christmas and Easter assemblies were highlights of the Thespians' year. During the year's meetings, the members experimented with different types of theatrical make-up, and studied the techniques of applying them to achieve various effects. They also performed one-act plays in which each member was encouraged to develop his own individual style of acting. In March, the Thespians joined with the AFS club in sponsoring a dance in honor of district exchange students.

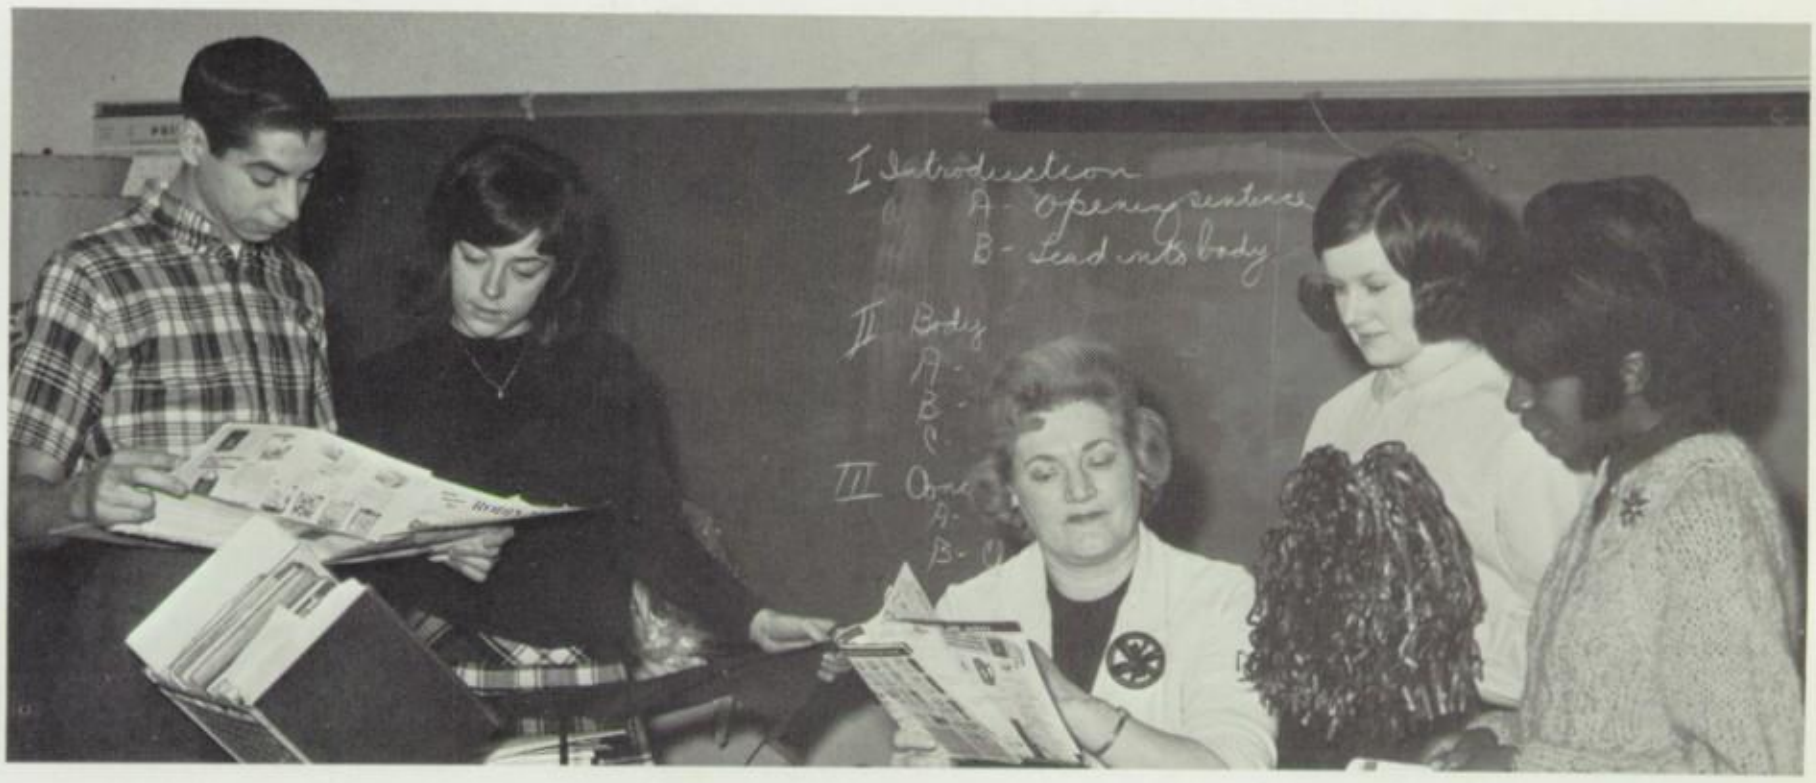
Pep Club Gives Spirited Backing to Teams



Looking for new ideas to promote school spirit are Andy Forde, president; Shirley Bonnett, vice president; Mrs. Gottschalk, sponsor; Bonnie McFall, secretary; and Lucille Moreland, treasurer.

As implied by its name, Pep Club's main purpose is to spread pep throughout the school. In any kind of weather, Pep Club members can be seen at every football and basketball game, cheering the team on to victory. Trying to promote better school spirit, these Indian fans plastered the halls with signs, wore red and black on days of games, and promoted sessions for learning new cheers. It wasn't uncommon to see a student or teacher wearing a victory pin.

Each year students are selected from every homeroom to represent the student body in the Student Council. Through the Council the students themselves can voice their opinions on the activities of the school.

The Student Council sponsors a number of activities. Two projects this year were the coat check at home basketball games, and the after-game dances. The money that was earned from these projects was given to worthy organizations at Christmas and was used for various purposes at GHS. The newest project of Student Council was the exchanging for a day of five students from Girard High with five students from a neighboring high school.

National Honor Society Credits Achievement

Early in spring a special assembly honors those juniors and seniors who have met the high standards set by the National Honor Society. Although many students may have a B average, the first requirement, only seven-and-one-half percent from each class are selected. That percentage are selected on the basis of character, leadership, and service. These, with scholarship, are the goals of National Honor Society.

Students are judged by teachers who have had them in a class, study hall, or extracurricular activity.

This year copies of the National Honor Society Constitution were made and issued to the members. By reading the Constitution, each member is made to understand the rules and regulations set up by past members. Although most of the rules are made by the National Council, certain rules pertaining to the GHS chapter are included in the Constitution.

Because of the high ideals of the National Honor Society, each person who wears the pin signifying membership can feel proud that he is a member of such a fine organization.

Dances Are Frequent Throughout Year

All the folks from Dog Patch turn out for the annual Sadie Hawkins Day race.

Dances are held throughout the school year after each home football or basketball game and for special occasions. These are usually sponsored by school organizations. One of the outstanding dances of the year was sponsored by the Reflector and the Journal in celebration of Sadie Hawkins Day. Students came in their finest rags to attend the "wedding of the year" in Dogpatch, U.S.A. During the dance, Marryin' Sam married any gal to any guy, if she was lucky enough to catch one. In March, all the AFS students in this area were invited to spend the evening in Girard. At this time a dance was held ir their honor. The decorations followed an international theme. In February the annual Sweetheart Dance was held near Valentine's Day. Other dances added variety to the year.

Ma and Pa Yokum (Anita Lonardo and Tom Del Genio), Jerry Lambert, Marcia Corbett, Tiny (Tim Morgan), Moonbeam McSwine (Cindy Mathes), Edd Crown, and Anita Merrick were all guests when Marryin' Sam (Mike Penza) joined Li'l Abner (Tom Brandhoff) and Daisy Mae (Sally Seward) in holy wedlock.

Prom Is Social Highlight of Year

Star-gazing couples walked "over the rainbow" into an enchanted garden on June 3 for the 1965 Junior-Senior Prom. The theme, "Somewhere over the Rainbow," was carried out by the use of angel-hair clouds, weeping willow trees, cascading fountains, and Grecian garden murals.

Flowers and pastel colors accented a dinner which preceded the welcoming address given by Bill Hart, Junior Class President. The Senior Class President, William Tepsick, gave the response. Musical entertainment was provided by a sextet of junior girls. Mr. Boyee and Mr. Moore then gave their traditional remarks.

Dancing followed to the music of Pat Berrill and his orchestra. Then came the moment all had awaited, the crowning of Queen Claudia Ward and King Frank Latell.

The PTA again sponsored its After-midnight Prom. Disc jockey George Barry provided the wild entertainment until dawn when a light breakfast was served to the hail and hearty.

The highlight of the evening is the crowning of Queen Claudia Ward and King Frank Latell.

The evening starts with an enjoyable dinner and much animated conversation.

Late-in-Season Spurt

Hampered by injuries and many times outsized, the Indians fought to a 2—7 season record and a 1—5 Steel Valley Conference mark. After losing their first seven games, the Indians repaid a debt to the Fitch Falcons by upsetting them 20—18. The following week the Indians carved another victory into the totem pole by dumping Poland 8—6.

Chosen for the Steel Valley Conference first team was Captain Mike Penza. Earning second-team berths were quarterback Jerry Lambert, halfback Edd Crown, and end Tim Morgan. Along with Captain Penza and Morgan, center Tom Kivlighan was chosen for the Trumbull County All-Star Team.

Indian Hoopsters Have Impressive Season

Mr. Light and Mr. Matuszwski discuss plans before the big game.

Girard's 1965-1966 basketball season was the most successful since 1959-1960. The season was characterized by near misses, losses to Boardman (twice), Liberty, and Fitch being in very close games. The season ended with an overall 10—9 record and an 8—4 entry in the Steel Valley Conference books. A loss to Champion in the first round of play in the Sectional Tournament ended an outstanding season for the Indians.

Senior Linzy Johnson proved his worth as he led the Indians in all statistics and gained for himself one great honor. Johnson was awarded a first team position on the All Steel Valley Conference Team. Scoring 246 in the field goal department and 82 at the free throw line, Johnson averaged 18.2 points per game.

Tim Morgan made his mark in the rebound department. He pulled down 263 or 13.8 per game. His rebounding strength reached a peak of 33 in a game against Struthers. Morgan, a senior, placed second in scoring, with 234 for an average of 12.3 per game.

Senior forward Dick Planton had his finest year on the hardboards, averaging 7.4 points and 10.1 rebounds per game. Not to be outdone, however, were playmaking guards Jerry Lambert, Andy Forde, John Farah, and Tom Brandhoff, who averaged 7.1, 4.5, 4.6, and 4.0 points respectively. Theirs were top honors in the "assist" column.

Field Day Is Spring Tradition at GHS

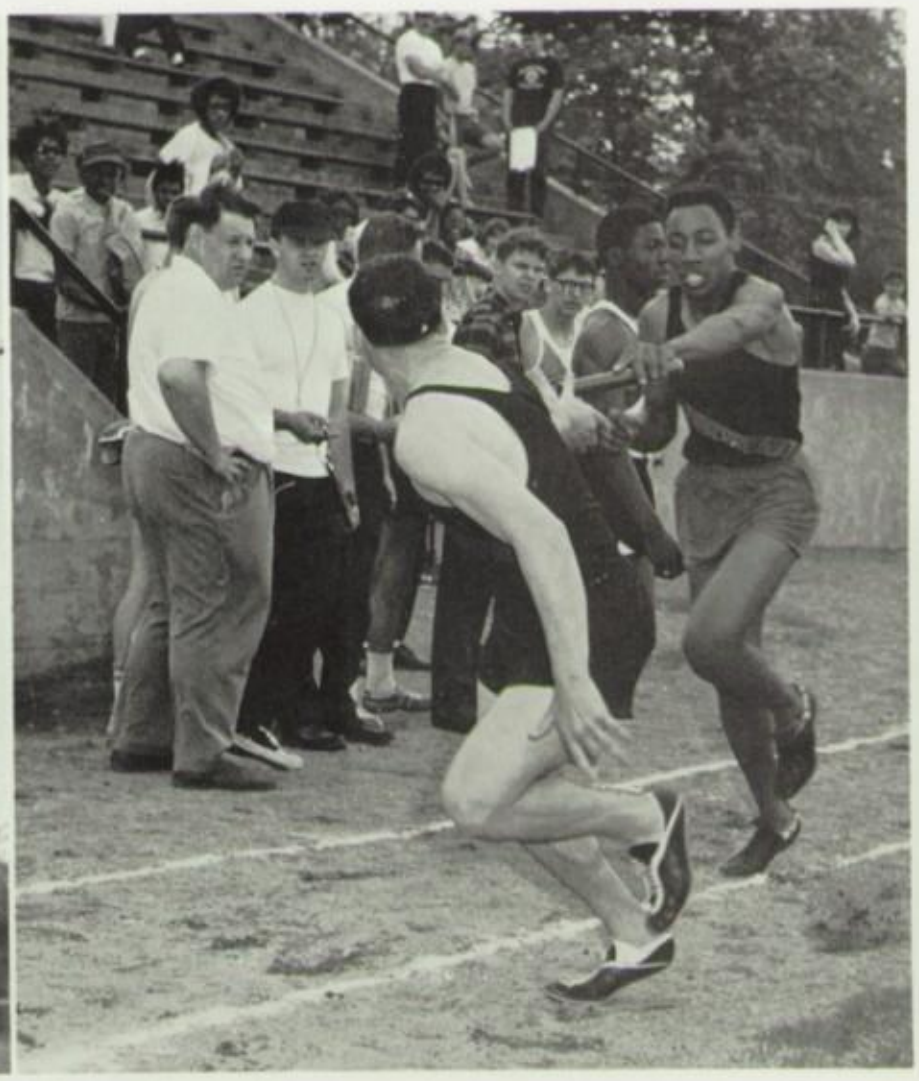
Marty Ferrick hurdles his way to another victory.

GHS may boast not only of having one of the best field days in the state, but of having the second oldest meet of its kind in Ohio.

After students have been classified by height, weight, and age, teams are drawn. To insure fairness, each contestant competes only with those of his own class. Each team tries to gain the most points through both individual and group events. The teams with the highest number of points win, and are awarded trophies. The judges, senior and junior lettermen, are selected by Mr. Borger.

For boys, the individual events range from the high jump, the shot put, and the broad jump to 50- and 100-yard dashes. The team events for boys include the 440-yard relay, the shuttle relay, and the big event, the medley relay. The events for girls include the 50- and 75-yard relays, the soccer kick, and the basketball throw. Girls' team events are the run-and-toss relay and the 220-yard relay.

Tim Morgan clears the bar for another first.



An exchange is made between Jack Lavelle and Paul Morgan.

Intramural Program Opens Sports to All

Beginning in the fall and continuing through the winter and spring are GHS intramurals. Since all games are held at noon, all students who wish to participate can play.

Flag football games begin in September and go on until late October. Basketball is probably the biggest intramural sport at GHS. This year there were a total of twelve boys' teams and eight girls' teams. With each boys' team playing six games, the teams were divided into two leagues. The winners of the leagues then met for a playoff game held during fifth period. This playoff game is the highlight of the intramural year. In the spring, volleyball (boys', girls', and co-ed) and baseball take over, rounding out the intramural year at GHS.

The Senior Eight and the Teens start the action as the girls' intramural basketball season begins. Girls are Cynthia Mathes, Linda Rahn, Kathy Briguglio, Mary Beth Adaway, Bonnie McFall, Marcia Corbett.

The Elite Six and the We Five teams fight to get possession of the ball as the championship game progresses. Players are Jack Lewis, Mike Drummond, Marty Ferrick, Joe Wodagaza, Jack Rose, Zeke Lowry.

The administrative head of the athletic program, responsible for establishing the rules which govern the GHS sports program, is the Athletic Council. The Council is composed of the superintendent, the principal, the athletic director, the ticket manager, the school treasurer, the GAA president, the football captain, and coaches of all sports. The group acts as a guide for Girard athletics, reviewing the sports program for the year and planning for the future. The Athletic Council is responsible for the players' insurance, selling of tickets, and buying of equipment.

The biggest morale builders in the school are the cheerleaders. In addition to their regular chores of leading the cheering section at football and basketball games and presiding at pep rallies, the girls, under the direction of Mrs. Wilkins, sponsored the Homecoming Dance. They took full responsibility for the tickets sales, and supplied the decorations. In the spring, the cheerleaders raised money so that they might go to camp. This year a mascot has been added to the group to help spread the word that the Indians will "fight right back."

Year of High School

The eighth grade is an academic and social base from which steps may be taken to achieve success. In the eighth grade, students are prepared for future study by taking a battery of tests designed to place them in classes according to academic ability. A guidance course is offered to aid these students. A six-week course is given in library science.

However, the eighth grade is not all work and no play. Eighth graders participate in extracurricular activities. In early autumn, they select Homecoming representatives. They also choose representatives from each homeroom to the Student Council. In athletics, they compete in basketball and volleyball intramurals and they may become members of the gym team. In music, many students join the band and glee club. In the spring, they are permitted to join in Civic Day activities. During the entire year, they fully support both the basketball and football teams.

Jimmy Colapietro is an example of eighth-grade confusion as he saws open his lock.

and Other Things

As the Freshmen start off their year, they look forward to hard work and increased responsibilities. Along with these responsibilities come many privileges. Freshmen select their own schedules and plan their course of study for their years at GHS. Another important part of their high school career is their social life. "Kid fun" still attracts them, but they are beginning to grow up.

Jim Koppel aids Shelley Stevens in maintaining her balance on the skateboard, while Mark Seelbach displays his talent and Linda Mozzillo offers her encouragement.

and Social Activity

What makes up the sophomore year? Hard work heads the list as students strive to develop scholastic ability. Their grades are now becoming much more important to them. Next comes fun, which the students derive from the many new clubs that are now open to them. These various clubs fill the sophomore year with new experiences, such as Touchdown Toddle and Spring Formal. Finally, the members of this class are no longer on the junior high level, but have advanced to membership in the senior high school.

A junior at GHS hardly has time to stop to catch his breath, but not a single one would trade places with anyone.

Hard work is the motto for the year; and, led by their newly elected officers, the students tackle any job eagerly. During the football season, juniors sell refreshments at the games and sponsor record hops after all home games. After the football chores are finished, the next item on the juniors' calendar is the junior play. This theatrical effort supplies many happy memories as well as bolsters the finances of the class.

The junior year is not all work. Fun and excitement help make the year fly by. The juniors select their rings in December and eagerly await the day in February when Mr. Boyee announces that they have finally arrived.

The junior year ends with the object of all the hard work, Prom. The Junior-Senior Prom, sponsored by the junior class for the seniors, is the highlight of a fast and frantic year.

FOR FIVE YEARS GIRARD HIGH SCHOOL HAS BEEN PART OF OUR LIVES. WE ARE, TO A LARGE EXTENT, WHAT IT HAS MADE US.

The entrance . . .

And this is what Girard High School is:
Not a brick building becoming brown with age,
Not the sights and sounds noticed by the passerby,
But an influence in the lives of young people,

The preparation . . .

The climax . . .

The proud moment . . .

Our Sincere Best Wishes to the

SENIOR CLASS OF GIRARD HIGH SCHOOL

We have considered it a privilege to work with you in making not only your Senior pictures but in photographing the many activities that have been so much a part of your Senior year.

We are deeply indebted to the members of your class who have helped us make the photographic story of your annual one that will remind you in the years to come of your life as a Senior of Girard High School.

May your future be ever happy and prosperous.

Since you didn't CHOOSE the period of history in which to be alive . . . aren't you the lucky ones to have happened into this age?

Why, you're practically sitting on the edge of space, with no limits at all to your potential! Whatever the field you choose just now, it's waiting for a "break-thru."

Enter Science — and you'll head for the moon. Choose Medicine — and you and your generation will probably stamp out most of the major dreads of humanity. Take the Arts — and you're on the verge of real excitement: new ways in which even the government is helping to spread the joys of it all!

How lucky you are, new Graduate!

THE STAFF OF THE REFLECTOR

Wishes To Thank

All Those Who have Contributed In Any Way

To Its Publication.

Gary,

So the youngest boy in the whole Junior class, if I told you the whole school you would become stuck-up, but I think you are the sharpest guy!!

I'll never forget all the things we've done, going to Milton and getting lost, to staying at your Grandparents for dinner! Then the little episode with the 911 + 911's. I just hope we can have this much fun in the future and remain as close as we are now.

I'll never forget you and every crazy little thing we've done, I hope you won't either. If you can still remember all that stuff from Spring. Formal that's doing great, because you know I forget some of those little things (like the girl in white).

Stay the way you are and never change, because I like you just like that!

Always,
Susan
